

Kingsley Players step back in time to a Victorian Christmas

Get into the Christmas spirit early this year with Kingsley Players' new musical production The Amazing Mr Scrooge, written by Norley's talented composer musician, Arnold Ashbrook.

The Amazing Mr Scrooge will be onstage nightly at the Kingsley Community Centre from Wednesday 5th December to Saturday 8th December at 7.30pm. There is also a Saturday matinee at 2.30pm.

The Kingsley theatre group have moved their normal January panto slot to the first week in December to stage a new take on Charles Dickens' classic Victorian tale, A Christmas Carol.

Arnold, who is also the musical director, has written a musical version of the much-loved story, featuring all the traditional characters - Ebenezer Scrooge, Bob Cratchit, Tiny Tim, ghosts and Christmas spirits.

Director Mary Lightfoot said: "With the bicentenary of the birth of Charles Dickens being celebrated this year, it's particularly appropriate to stage this production of one of his most popular novels.

"We have a large cast of adults and children who are in fine voice and ready to launch the festive season with a wonderfully inspiring tale of Christmas cheer."
